know your county government

by WILLARD BRANSON
Fifth District Supervisor

Many of us are aware of the problems presented by the various elections--federal, state, school boards, etc. It appears that petitions requesting consolidation are now coming in, once again, to our Elections Department. For instance, the requests from the Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District, the Castroville Fire Protection District, the City of Pacific Grove, and the Santa Rita Union School District.

As the law stands at the present time there seems no alternative but to accept consolidation. However, we believe that all parties should be aware of the situation that exists and which will cause problems on election day, as well as many grievances from the voters that all departments will be subjected to.

Prior to this present referral and in considering just five elections from districts that wish to be consolidated or have already been consolidated, we have 38 precincts that will have at least two rosters for the voters to sign, and as many as four in some precincts.

This means that the voter signs a roster and votes on a paper ballot for a fire or harbor district. This means two or three or four sets of supplies to be delivered with a separate ballot box for each and a separate tally and set of supplies that must be handled by the election officials. All separate tallying done after the polls close will delay the return of Votomatic supplies and the election returns that will be available to the public.

The voter becomes confused and irritated and the election officials really become confused with all the details that they must do. The records and returns are very incomplete. This could cause serious problems for an election.

As was mentioned this considers five elections but by rumor it's possible that we will be considering at the very least eight more, two of which have a great many portion precincts, so the problems are just starting.

As more and more of these elections are called and more of them consolidated, and more changes are made in our boundaries in the county (reapportionment making our county divided in the 28th and 29th Assembly District), we are faced with problems that are time consuming to work out and in some cases, just impossible to administer.

We are faced with a very difficult situation and it is bound to affect our efficiency with the pressures of our shortened time limits. We sincerely want to have good elections and we want to please the public, but with the above mentioned problems we are going to have complaints, and saying that the laws are responsible does not always satisfy the voters.

It is our earnest hope that something can be done soon to have the legislature see the problems and be receptive to corrective changes, but sometimes that takes a long time. A letter to Assemblyman Bob Wood or Sen. Donald Grunsky will help our cause.

In the meantime, we must watch closely all of the issues. It is the feeling by some that many people fail to vote due to the complexities. Don't forget that it is the taxpayers money which is usually being voted upon-- your money. Let your vote count.

What would Alexander Graham Bell think of it all?

The new Dallas-Fort Worth Airport charges 25 cents for a local pay phone call. Telephone companies are determined to make customers pay for information calls to the operator and to replace flat rates with metered message units that the customer cannot verify.

What's more, telephone companies know that the massive complexity of their equipment and service offerings can be the most lucrative merchandising policy to make customers pay more than they should.

For example, a Wisconsin firm wanted a new telephone system. The telephone company suggested a system. But a study by the firm of the official tariff document revealed that two other systems were available with savings of 30 and 45 percent respectively over the quotation submitted by the telephone company.

Most business and residential consumers are either unaware of the contents or availability of the large tariff materials which must be filed by the telephone utility, or they don't know how to read it.

Thousands of similar pitfalls and contrived complexities await the customer of telephone service. And as the costs of such service rocket upward, a new market has emerged--the independent telephone consultant to guide one through the treacherous shoals of Ma Bell and its subsidiaries and satellites.

One such consultant, Frank K. Griesinger of Cleveland, Ohio, has written a new book called, "How to Cut Costs and Improve Service of Your Telephone, Telex, TWX and Other Telecommunications." (McGraw-Hill).

Griesinger knows more than he puts into this book of advice to the unwary business customer of telephone equipment and services. But as he points out in his preface: "This book is not intended to be a critique of the telecommunications industry."

What he does relate is how to grasp the differences in service, choose the least expensive, most suitable type and train employees to keep costs down. For instance he lists ways to shorten long distance calls. (One approach he doesn't mention is for people to stand up at their desk while making such calls.)

When the Social Security System was devised there was an expressed fear that the necessary identification code could someday be used to give everyone an "official state number." For that reason, every Social Security card has a statement declaring the number is "not for identification."

Over the years, however, practices have evolved that clearly ignore the privacy intention printed on Social Security cards. A few of these practices include:

...to collect federal retirement and survivor benefits.

...benefit from an estate, trust, interest or dividend.

...but or transfer securities from U.S. savings bonds.

...attend high school or college in many areas.

...open a checking or savings account.

...receive a driver's license or obtain fishing or hunting licenses in some states.

This list by no means indicates all the ways SS numbers are used to keep tabs on the populace. There are many more, with even more yet to be conceived. And none of it has come about with public approval.

The government has been the most prolific expander of the SS number uses. Somehow, within the ponderous bureaucratic mentality, there came an idea that feeding already designated SS numbers into computers was much easier than fitting individuals with new numbers.

As a result, we have become a nation of computer impulses--little electronic ridges stored on countless tapes reduce our lives to a few inches of computer read-out. The SS number is the key that makes it possible.

Most never experience difficulties with the data banks that contain our personal history. But some have, and their cases are disturbing.

A California couple was arrested by sheriff's deputies while driving home. Relying on information from criminal data banks, the deputies held the couple at gunpoint, handcuffed them, and took them to jail on auto theft charges.

What the computer did not show was that the car in question had been recovered and returned to its rightful owners long before. After 18 hours the couple was released.

Even without rendering critical judgments, the author details a pattern of complexity and hard-to-get information about telephone services that leaves even hardheaded business customers defenseless against "top of the line" telephone salesmen.

But, writes Griesinger, "once you see the thick volume in which tariffs are contained, you can understand why even an experienced telephone company salesman won't know all the details about a particular piece of equipment or service which might be made to order for your particular problem....Reserve a morning or afternoon for some leisurely reading. Then surprise your telephone company representative with your new knowledge about the complexities of his profession."

The reader deserves some more basic evaluation by the experienced Griesinger. Why are the tariffs so complicated and abstruse? What about the state and federal regulatory agencies and why can't the aggrieved customer effectively appeal to them for help? How is Ma Bell trying to stifle the new interconnect industry that is trying to inject some long-needed competition against the Bell and Western Electric monopoly over equipment?

What are the recognized abuses in the selling of the Yellow Pages? Why must customers pay a rental instead of making an outright purchase of equipment? How can consumers organize and develop workable strategies for basic changes in the ways they are treated?

There needs to be a telephone consumers' action manual for us by people throughout the country. Three years ago, a citizens group in New York called Grass Roots started to take on the local telephone company for its deteriorating services and accelerating bills. But it could not reach enough residential consumers for contributions to keep it going.

If consumers would provide support for a local telephone users group to represent them, their complaints would be translated into reform. Industrial and commercial telephone users are beginning to organize themselves and none too soon, given the plans of Ma Bell.

Other instances may not be quite so dramatic, but they can cause just as severe a hardship. Consider the lost job or denied loan application because of mysterious "reports" locked in a computer.

People are vaguely aware that they don't want to be traced from cradle to grave. According to a report from Health, Education and Welfare, "In spite of practical advantages, the idea of a Standard Universal Identifier is objectionable to many Americans...Many people both feel a sense of alienation from their social institutions and resent the dehumanizing effects of a highly mechanized society."

But, by the same token, people are largely responsible for loss of their own privacy.

Sen. Barry Goldwater has said, "We have placed material security above our right to privacy. In so doing, we have allowed big government to take over our personal responsibilities. We let the government educate us, house us and direct our cultural experience. Then we wonder about the collapse of our right to be left alone."

The senator is right. Beyond keeping intruders from our homes, we fail to grasp the true significance of privacy. And strangers, with our tacit consent, are free to browse among computer tapes, peering intently into our lives.

Board of supervisors denies sign request, approves hike trail

The Monterey County Board of Supervisors denied an appeal on a sign in Carmel Valley Village and approved a riding and hiking easement near Hacienda Carmel in its meeting Tuesday.

The board denied the appeal of Sally J. Burrington, who sought permission to maintain a sign for "Schultz Back Yard" at 3 Delfino Place in the village.

The planning commission had previously denied the request on the grounds the sign was "incompatible" with the surrounding area and "aesthetically infeasible."

The appellant did not appear before the board.

The board accepted a riding and hiking trail easement in connection with the Ferris Bureson Minor Subdivision near Hacienda Carmel.

No action was taken on a request from the Mid-Valley Fire Protection District, which seeks initiation of dissolution of Fire Service Area 59. The service area must file papers with other agencies and the matter taken up in the March election.

The Environmental Impact Report of the Villas Carmel Del Pacifico Subdivision in Carmel Valley was certified with no opposition.

The board voted to allow consolidation of elections by the Carmel Unified School District tax override election with the general election on Nov. 5, as well as several other area school, park and fire district elections.

In other action, the board voted to:

--Allow the PG and E to change transmission lines along one section of Highway 68.

--Sign an ACTION volunteer program agreement in the probation department which would provide two people for volunteer coordination and development of a crime prevention program.

--Allow the division of social services to employ as a professional social worker the daughter of a man already employed by the department.

--Approve certain standby pay agreements with the county employees' association.

--Continue to Sept. 24 at 2 p.m. a discussion of architectural services for the Natividad Medical Center.

Carmel Valley Property Owners group mails issue questionnaires

Officers of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association have begun tabulating the first returns on a bulk mailing questionnaire to valley residents dealing with various issues on development.

Dolores Anderson said the questionnaires were mailed last Friday and boxholders should have received them Saturday morning with route residents receiving them Monday.

Residents were asked to note approval or disapproval of issues, including:

--Further major development.

--Incorporation.

--A sewer system for the valley, reasons for any approval, suggested method of financing for the system.

--Additional dam or dams on the Carmel River, reasons for any approval, financing for any dam.

--Methods of meeting projected water needs of Peninsula, if additional dams were opposed.

--Widen Highway 1, build a road in Hatton Canyon, or do nothing in relation to traffic problems along Highway 1.

Public transportation possibilities.

Traffic problems on Carmel Valley Road.

Location of any public park or open space area for the Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District, type of park.

Suggestions for additional activities of the association.

Mrs. Anderson said a report on the results may be available within four to six weeks.

SABL School head named

Elizabeth J. Payne has been appointed director of the SABL School of Carmel Valley for the coming school year, according to Ralph W. Thompson president of the school board.

Ms. Payne most recently has been teaching principal of the Graves School near Salinas.

She will continue the ungraded, individualized approach to instruction used in the school since its founding in 1968 under the leadership of Nancy Bottero.

A reception and orientation session was held Thursday evening in Carmel for present students' parents and other interested people.

Leslie Johnson

Outlook duties to Johnson

Leslie Johnson, Jefferson City, Mo., has assumed duties as editor of the Carmel Valley Outlook.

A 1973 graduate of Culver-Stockton College at Canton, Mo., she has been county government reporter and editorial assistant for the New Tribune Company since early 1973. She was also previously employed with the Christian Board of Publication in St. Louis and the Sikeston, Mo., Publishing Company.

In college, she was editor of the campus literary magazine and feature editor of the campus newspaper. She has been a staff member for journalism and creative writing workshops at Culver-Stockton since her graduation.

Miss Johnson was president of her school's chapter of Sigma Tau Delta, professional English honorary, and treasurer of the Sigma Kappa social sorority. She was an Honor Service Fellow and was elected student body secretary.

In Jefferson City, Miss Johnson was active in Community theatre and scouting, as well as the Jefferson City Cantorum.

New staff, night clinic announced

A staff addition and two evening pediatric clinics weekly have been announced by the Natividad Medical Center in Salinas.

Dr. Robert Avila has joined the staff as clinic and emergency room physician. He was associated with the Gabilan Medical Group as a general practitioner before its dissolution and received his medical education at the University of California at San Francisco. A native of El Salvador, he is fluently bilingual.

The second pediatric clinic announced this week will be conducted 5 to 8 p.m. on Tuesday evening by Dr. Talcott Bates. Appointments can be made by calling the clinic, 424-2541, extension 295 or 296.

Roscelli Corp. ceases newsprint recycling

The John Roscelli Corp. of Carmel has suspended its recycling of newsprint indefinitely because of the inability of paper mills to absorb the huge quantities of paper being recycled.

The disposal company now has about 150 tons of newsprint stored at its recycling location in Sand City collected in recent weeks from several recycling bins throughout the Peninsula.

All the bins have been removed until the paper mills are once again able to absorb the newsprint.

Some of the locations which previously accepted newsprint and which are affected include the Carmel Valley Outlook, Brinton's at the Carmel Rancho Shopping Center, the Carmel Post Office, the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center, the United Methodist Church in Pacific Grove and St. Francis Catholic Church in Seaside.

"We can hardly park our trucks for the tons of newsprint we've collected," remarked Gerry Chiappe of Roscelli Corp.

She said the company was informed last week by Nicolet Mill in Hollister that the mill could not handle any more recycled newsprint, and there was no prediction made on when the market might be able to absorb more.

The reason is that recycling seems to have become so popular throughout Northern California and on the Monterey Peninsula that paper mills simply can't accommodate the volume of recycled newsprint they have been receiving, she explained.

The Roscelli Corp. has invested $10,000 in a machine to bind the newsprint and has established a location for the storage of recycled papers at its Sand City truck parking area.

Although there was no indication of what steps, if any, Northern California paper mills are taking to increase their ability to process recycled newsprint, Mrs. Chiappe said some of the paper mills "hope to open up and be able to take everybody soon."

Roscelli Corp. plans to hold its 150 tons of newsprint at its Sand City location until that time, unless local fire ordinances dictate otherwise. Local residents concerned about recycling may wish to do likewise, until paper mills are once again able to accept newsprint.

Weekend College to begin second term

The Monterey Peninsula College's Weekend College will begin its second semester this fall with 46 classes covering 22 different disciplines to broaden the concept of "life-long" education on the Monterey Peninsula.

Keith Merrill, dean of community education, explained that "life-long education refers to the need and desire of people to be students throughout their lives."

The idea that college is only for the recent high school graduate is being overshadowed by the number of older adults who are finding the need for more education to better themselves or their job outlooks, or just simply want to know more about the things going on about them.

The success of the spring Weekend College program can be measured by the number of persons who attended Friday and Saturday classes and their age levels.

Of interest, said Merrill, is that out of the nearly 900 people who attended classes, about 90 per cent were over the 18-21 age level and the oldest were in their 70s.

"Many people," said Merrill, "including those who are retiring from the military, are coming to MPC to learn a second occupation or to prepare for advanced education at a four-year institution."

"An advantage to Weekend College courses is that they do not conflict with the work schedules of fully employed persons during the week."

For the 1974 fall semester which starts the week of Sept. 10, the Community Education Office has scheduled 24 Friday evening classes and 22 Saturday classes. A list of Weekend College courses follows.

Friday classes

--Admin. of Justice: Law Enforcement on the Monterey Peninsula.

--Auto Technology: The Consumer and the Automobile.

--Business: Administrative Management; Personnel Relations; Law for the Layman; Maintenance and Engineering-

Front Office Procedure; and Hotel-Motel Law-Accounting.

--Economics: Geopolitics and Economics of the Middle East.

--Electronics: Introduction to Electronics, Survey of High Fidelity (systems) and Home Entertainment Repair.

--Engineering: Dwelling House Construction.

--English: English Skills for Success in Learning, English Reading and Creative Writing.

--Ethnic Studies: Asian Experience.

--Humanities: Survey.

--Ornamental Horticulture: Introduction to Ornamental Horticulture.

--Personal Development: Making a Career Choice and How To Get a Job.

--Physical Education: Intermediate Badminton and Personal Fitness.

--Recreation: Introduction to Recreation.

Saturday classes

--Anthropology: Introduction to Physical Anthropology and Introduction to Archaeology.

Mid - Valley plans year

Mid-Valley Parent Nursery will begin its second year of operations Sept. 3 under the direction of Marilyn McCurry.

Although the regular program is filled, openings are available in the Wait List Visitation Program, where parent and child attend the school together one day a week.

The programs are available to children aged 2 years and 9 months to five years old who reside in the Carmel Unified School District.

Located at St. Philip's Lutheran Church, the nursery is a cooperative program in which participating parents donate one morning a week to staff the school program and attend a Thursday night class in child development and related subjects through the Carmel Adult School.

Joyce Mayers, president of the school, says the program is based on "a humanizing philosophy with emphasis on perceptual development in planning the program and materials."

Information and applications may be obtained through Carol Collins, phone 659-4368.

Decision brings oil to valley

Synthetic motor oil firm confidently tells hopeful success story

By BETTY BARRON

EON E-11, a synthetic motor oil, retails locally for about $4.75 a quart—but requires changing under normal driving conditions only about every 50,000 to 75,000 miles.

Someone has struck oil in our Carmel Valley? We knew we had just about everything here! But oil?

It happened practically overnight—the establishment of EON E-11, a new product and a new company in the Village, manned by three engaging entrepreneurs—J.C. (Jay) Cotter, Sally Fredricks and native son Leo Briggs.

Cotter makes quick decisions—and the right ones. He came here in April to find a headquarters for EON E-11, which is an abbreviated trademark for Pacer EON E-11 Motor Oil.

"Oil" is hardly descriptive enough for this exciting new product, a synthetic lubricant proving effective under the most rigid testing.

Cotter says he has wanted to live here since he cut across from King City to Carmel on the Valley Road fifteen years ago. When he became affiliated with EON, he knew his dream would materialize. Two of the principle stockholders of Eon already lived in the Monterey Peninsula area—Dennis Powell, the company's counsel and Leo Briggs.

Cotter's family live on Country Club Drive. Rick, 18, is enrolled at Monterey Peninsula College, Evin, 10, and Cydney, 12, at Tularcitos Middle School. Marlene Cotter, his wife will be registering at MPC this fall, too, as a biology major. Leo and Sally Lou Briggs and their family live on Carmel Valley Road. Its developers say EON E-11 does everything an engine oil must do. It was tested in 19 Houston, Texas, police cars.

Their results show that, after 50,000 miles, the oil was still working, virtually unaffected by engine operation. Also, engine wear was almost non-existent. Valve and pollution equipment on the cars were as clean as the day they were installed. Sludge, varnish, and lacquers, the by-products of conventional hydrocarbon oils, were eliminated.

Cotter explains that understanding how EON E-11 Motor Oil works requires an understanding of the role played by oil in an internal combustion engine.

It must lubricate moving parts by providing a thin film to prevent the parts from scuffing and reducing heat created by friction. Oil must act as a cooling fluid to assist in dissipating the intense heat generated by combustion, which could quickly reduce an engine to scrap. Thirdly, it must flush moving parts to clean them of abrasive particles which cause excessive wear and premature engine failure.

Hydrocarbon motor oil, when new, will perform these functions, but begins to wear out from the first instant of use. Heat in an engine breaks down the conventional motor oil into lighter and heavier molecules. The lighter ones escape from the engine to pollute the air and the heavy ones stay in the engine to form sludge.

The motor oil thickens, loses its lubricating properties and begins to hold in suspension abrasive carbon particles which increase wear on moving parts.

Its developers say Pacer EON E-11 Motor Oil will not break down under engine heat because it does not contain hydrocarbon. It is based on materials which are "thermally stable," thus maintaining proper viscosity.

When new, EON E-11 is a bright golden color. After a time, as it performs in the engine, it will turn very dark, almost black. But this is of no concern, Cotter says. EON E-11 is just dissolving the carbon in the engine and preventing carbon build-up in the future.

Although the synthetic motor oil sells for about $4.75 a quart, its distributors point out that it must be changed only every 50,000 miles, instead of 2,000 as hydrocarbon motor oil must be.

According to the reports supplied by Cotter and Briggs, the Houston police cars with hydrocarbon lubricants had been previously "changed" every 2,000 miles at a cost of $3.

Now, they say, the cars are simply checked with dipsticks and sent back into service. The oil filters can last at least 24,000 miles since EON E-11 does not produce any sludge.

John Williams, President of Pacer Oil Company, is a man who has long been intrigued by the lubricant qualities of esters, compounds formed by combining fatty acids with alcohol. He got the idea for man-made "oil" when his daughter went away to college. He was afraid she might have car trouble, because of lack of experience in caring for a car.

Williams' experiments with combinations of organic fatty acids and alcohol, with the addition of a bit of acid modifier to control acids produced by engine operation, worked so well that he made exhaustive tests. The results of the tests were so remarkable he decided to market the product.

A father's concern about a daughter not very knowledgeable in car maintenance sparked his search for a motor oil which would not break down under normal use as hydrocarbon lubricants do.

A combination of organic fatty acids and alcohol with the addition of an acid modifier led to the development of Pacer EON E-11 Motor Oil.

Now, he has distribution in Southern California, with retail salesmen on commission.

Locally, Jeanelle Kaminske of Carmel Valley Realty, who introduced Cotter to Briggs, has been using EON E-11 in one of her business cars, a 1973 Toyota Corolla. This car had averaged about 23 miles per gallon until EON was used. After two months of checking the miles-per-gallon, Mrs. Kaminske found that the car almost consistently averaged about 29 miles per gallon, she says.

"I also noticed that after putting in EON oil and traveling about 15 miles, the car engine was idling much faster than normal. I had a service station attendant re-adjust the idle screw, which is probably an additional gas saving since the engine is so much cleaner now and runs more efficiently. I am quite satisfied with the performance of EON E-11 in my car," she continues.

Cotter, Briggs and Fredricks can be found above Plaza Linda, eager to tell the EON story—a success story in the Valley.

Valley youth injured

A young Carmel Valley boy is in satisfactory condition following an accident Wednesday and a Valley man is charged with drunk driving after an unrelated incident Tuesday.

Benjamin Speiser, 14, of 70 South Bank Rd., is in satisfactory condition at Carmel Community Hospital after being injured in a head-on crash with a pick-up truck while riding his mini-bike.

Speiser was riding southbound on South Bank Road on a narrow bridge when he met the northbound pickup driven by Frank C. Rooney, 67, Carmel Valley.

The Highway Patrol said Speiser's lack of brakes was the immediate cause of the accident. Rooney was not injured.

John Arthur Graham, 23, of 35 Village Dr., has been charged with drunk driving and causing injury in an accident, the Highway Patrol reports, following a head-on crash about midnight Tuesday.

Graham was southbound on Laurelas Grade Road about one mile south of Highway 68 when he crossed the center line and struck the car driven by John William Martin, 63, Salinas, head-on, the patrol said.

Martin received minor injuries, as did Graham. Mary Ann Martin, 52, Salinas, received moderate injuries and was taken to Salinas Valley Memorial Hospital.

Fall fashion show set

Once again the Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services will be sponsoring a fall fashion show. Mrs. Robert McFarren of Carmel and Mrs. Ed Ellies of Pebble Beach will act as co-chairpersons for a repeat performance of the popular "Fun and Fashion Show." The new version of this show will be presented Wednesday, Oct. 23, with a tea at Rancho Canad-

Country Club, Carmel Valley Road.

The organizers promise that models will be "of all shapes and sizes" with garments selected from the racks of Sacks, Seaside—the name members give to the Thrift Shop owned and operated by the Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Service.

OPENNESS of childhood is found in the renovated nursery school on Upper Circle Drive completed as a home by the Antonich family in Carmel Valley. (Outlook staff photo)

Nursery school gains third role through Antonich renovation

Do you believe in the superstition that a home absorbs the joys and sorrows of past residents, casting a spell, setting a mood, and affecting the lives of residents who follow?

Then you will surely agree that the lives of future tenants at Betty and Mike Antonich's newly completed rental will reflect the many happy experiences of the former Playtime Nursery School.

Last Sunday's open-house reception was the culmination of the couple's summer long project of converting the former Robles del Rio landmark and adjoining garage into a two bedroom home with a personality of its own.

The building was originally a barn located on Upper Circle renovated into a school one summer by George T.C. Smith. "It was an extremely long job," recalls Betty, who describes it as a summer of numerous fires with Smitty, the veteran valley news photographer, grabbing his camera and disappearing each time the whistle blew!

The Antonichs moved to the Valley just as Mrs. Lou Allaire closed her nursery school. Known as "Miss Betty" to the six hundred plus little people who attended over an 18 year period, the school began with Davette Allaire as the first pupil enrolled in a class of ten. Within three years, there was a waiting list of students, and assistants were hired to help with the varied activities of the school.

The current remodeling was done by the father-son contractor-building team of Ed and Ron Mayfield.

The Mayfield children, of course, had answered roll call for Miss Betty.

When the Maxwells began the job they discovered in the wall a nest to which birds had gained entry for years via a knothole over the school's front door. It was inhabited.

Floors, ceiling, jobs by the dozen were completed while the two men worked around the wall housing the little family.

Finally Betty returned one day from shopping to find the wall torn down. The fledglings like so many other Playtime Nursery School alums had tried their wings and were big enough to leave the nest.

Friends who had actively helped with the plans celebrating the completion included Mr. and Mrs. Ed Mayfield, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Mayfield, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Elston (he was the architect), Mr. and Mrs. Alex von Drachenfels.

Betty's sister and husband from Carmel, Mr. and Mrs. Van King, and their houseguest, Bob Andrews of Sausalito, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Manning, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Chappell, Mrs. and Mrs. Sydney Crane and their houseguests, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Gressel of San Mateo and Col. (USA Ret) and Mrs. William Taylor.

The Mmes. Bettie O'Neal, JoAnn Sears, Phyllis Crockett, Haifiz Haidar, and Len Rhoads. Among the "old grads" were Mollie O'Neal, Carey, Carol, and Allan Crockett, John O'Neal, his wife, Mary, and their houseguests, the Wayne Burkes of San Francisco.

The Antonich children, Mrs. Francie Fawley and daughter Lisa, Mike Jr., Steve, and their guests, Miss Barbara Budinger and David Isaacson.

Immigrant couple seeks help

A Valley family now back from a tour of Europe befriended a couple on a beach near Rome. The couple's story, heart-warming and threaded with the basics that Americans tend to take for granted, so appealed to the Valley couple that they are seeking assistance to being them to the United States.

Freedom is so important to this couple from Russia they have given up all ties in their homeland in order to come to America and make a fresh start.

In his early 40's, the gentleman's field is photography and art, but he has an eagerness and enthusiasm to do anything to assure their remaining in the U.S.

A family in Carmel has offered a part time gardening job, so the search is now for a number of jobs of this sort which would give them the guaranteed income required.

They have their airline tickets and will be allowed to come once jobs and housing are provided.

Anyone willing to offer help is asked to call 659-2179.

Speedy recoveries wished for

A speedy recovery to Christine Bottaro who was injured last week in a bike accident.....and to Mrs. Charles (Fran) Gansel who is a patient at Monterey Hospital.

Reading workshop attended

The Distar Reading Workshop held at Tularcitos Elementary last week was "well attended," according to members of the sponsoring Title I Advisory committee.

The program with accompanying filmed material was presented by Mrs. Nancy Hineros, who shared experiences from her classroom in Marina Del Mar.

Participating from the Tularcitos faculty were Principal Phil Smith, teachers Evelyn Holmes and Susan Venturelli, and Pamela Smith, representing the CUSD school board.

Among those in attendance were Mmes. Larry Cisneros, Wyatt Talley, Darrell Jewett, Leslie Leslie, Bob Oross, Leon Panetta, Gail Still, Illia Thompson, Grace Evans, Dick Barelli, Janet Hooper, Dolores Jackson, Shelly Schachter, Dick Franke, Chris Spaulding, Ed Cisneros, Mark Starr, Dale Buche, Ben O'Hara, George Sackman, Mary Varni, Mickey Miyamoto and Lucy Smithson.

Labor Day Show deadline nears

The entry deadline is Saturday for the August 31-September 1 Carmel Valley Trail and Saddle Club's 18th Annual Horse Show.

Entry fees are $3.50 per class (except Lead Line-$2.50, $1 per horse Dept. of Agriculture drug check fee, and $1 per class Post Entry fee.

Dorothy Pullman, show manager, extends an invitation to everyone to include a visit to the club grounds on East Garzas Road during the Labor Day weekend. Free admission and snacks will be available all day at the concession stand under the sycamore trees.

Padre Boosters reorganize

Anyone interested in promoting extra-curricular activities for Carmel High School students is invited to become a member of the Carmel High School Boosters Club.

Membership fees of $5 will be accepted at the next general meeting scheduled for 8 p.m. September 12 in CHS Room 2 or you may mail your check to Mrs. Frank Lucido.

A membership table will also be set up at each home football game. 26060 Via Riviera, Carmel, Calif. 93921.

Eligibility for assistance applies to any activity of the student body. During the past two years almost $3,000 was used directly or indirectly to further athletic and other student programs.

The organization provided flags for the flag girls, money for band uniforms and equipment, warm-up jackets for the cross country team, film used to photograph the football games, baseball equipment, tournament entry fees, etc. The Boosters Club also sponsors three major athletic banquets.

The first meeting will include election of a new slate of officers. Plan to attend and help get the Padre Boosters off to a good start.

Frazer - Stech vows set

Wedding vows will be exchanged during a garden wedding to be held beside the pool at the Carmel Valley Inn on October 5 by Robyn Gwynn-Alison Frazer and David Bruce Stech.

The summer engagement was announced by Robyn's parents, Mrs. James E. Ijams of Carmel Valley and Richard B. Frazer of Corall de Tierra.

Mr. Stech's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Roland Stech of San Jose. He is presently stationed with the Air Force at George Air Force Base.

The fall bride-to-be is the sister of Regan and Garth Frazer and Anne and Katee Ijams, all of the family home in Robles Del Rio.

She attended Tularcitos, Middle and Carmel High School and is a graduate of Notre Dame High School in Salinas. She has been attending Victorville Junior College while residing with her paternal grandmother, Mrs. T. R. Frazer in Apple Valley.

She is the grand niece of Miss Muriel Townsend of Monterey and the great granddaughter of the late James E. Townsend of that city who will be remembered in garden clubs and for his long association with Episcopal church music and choir groups.

The couple plans to make their home in Apple Valley until he receives military orders elsewhere.

Sioux and Jerry to perform

Entertainment during the fall Hospitality Tea sponsored by the Carmel Valley Women's Club will feature two former Valley-ites and well known Peninsula performers, Sioux Scott and Jerry Winters.

Newcomers to the Valley are especially invited to the annual event and first meeting of the new year on Wednesday, September 4, 12:30 p.m. at the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center.

Hostesses will be the members of the board. For further information, please call Mrs. Willoughby R. Moore, 659-2746.

Rev. Keating honored Sunday

The Rev. Douglas Keating of our Lady of Mount Carmel will be honored at a farewell reception from 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday, at the Parish Hall on El Cammito. Father Keating leaves the Valley September 3 to take over the Saint Rose Catholic Church and adjoining school in Paso Robles.

Friends of all ages and faiths who have come to know Father Keating during his five years of Valley residency are cordially invited to attend the party.

The Rev. John McSweeney, who has been at Our Lady of Soledad since 1969, has been assigned as the new priest for the Valley parish. Father McSweeney is a native of County Cork, Ireland.

Gaymans visit with children

Enjoying a summer sojourn in their former hometown last week were Mary El and Dick Gayman with their four handsome redheads, Brett, Tod, Scott and Jennifer. Now residents of Whittier, the Gaymans were houseguests on Chaparral Road at the home of Mary El's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Horne.

Jill on Laurel Drive visit

Just like the nursery rhyme "Jill went up the hill," Laurel Drive to be exact, to spend a few days with her grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. Russell Ryan. After enjoying her short visit, Jill Ryan returned to her home in San Mateo to await her next trip to lovely Carmel Valley.

Feldmans visit in Valley

Michael Feldman and his mother, Mrs. Larry (Dorothy) Feldman visited the Valley before returning to fall classes in Gardnerville, Nevada. The former Valley-ites brought regards from Larry, who was left in charge of the family appliance business, and were houseguests on Lilac Lane at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Laird.

Life dedicated to easing pain

Gwendolyn May serves to help create new generation of humanity

GWENDOLYN MAY speaks passionately about the need for support for various programs of the SPCA, including an animal shelter, neutering clinic and emergency care. (Outlook staff photo)

"I think our two really positive emphases right now are the humane education program and our neutering clinic, each with objectives leading toward achieving our goal—to end unnecessary suffering of animals."

Gwendolyn May, executive director of the Monterey County SPCA, speaks with concern and enthusiasm of the staff and volunteer work being done at the shelter on the Salinas-Monterey highway.

She continues, "Our humane education program is very important to us. Children do not intend to be cruel, but they must be taught to be kind. We're trying to create a generation of humane human beings. If children learn to act humanely toward animals, these attitudes will be reflected in their relations with other people."

Sherrie May, director of the humane education program, visits schools throughout Monterey County before the children visit the complex itself. Last year during the gas shortage, Ms. May explains, she made three times as many trips taking animals to the children who could not make the bus trip to the shelter.

Her approach is to "make the child look through the eyes of the animal, make him imagine how that little rabbit must feel when hugged too tightly about the neck. It is unique and more complex than it sounds," she says.

A Carmel Valley resident since 1958, Mrs. May has always been vitally concerned about the prevention of cruelty to animals, taking in unwanted dogs, cats, birds and stray possums.

After joining the SPCA Board, she was sworn in as a State Humane Officer and almost immediately started bringing cruelty cases to court. The owner of neglected and starving horses in Carmel Valley and a cat poisoner in Carmel were among the first to be prosecuted successfully.

In 1965, she left the board to become a full-time officer and soon learned to handle the newly-acquired tranquilizer gun, bringing quick relief to large injured, and otherwise unmanageable, animals such as seals, sea lions and deer.

Named in 1968 as the society's first executive director, she continues to work long hours at the shelter near Salinas. Although doctor's orders prohibit long trips to rescue injured animals late at night, she is still the ambulance service for the shelter.

"Right now, in addition to problems with operating costs of nearly $10,000 a month, one of our major concerns is the neuter clinic," Mrs. May says.

"We can place only about five per cent of the cats and dogs we take in. That naturally means that the remaining 95 per cent must be put to sleep, because our society does not allow any animals to be given or sold to researchers, even if they were in an acceptable condition," she says.

"Unless we can control the surplus population of cats and dogs, we're going to keep getting more of them, and getting nowhere," she says.

The neuter clinic at the shelter, by appointment only, now keeps one veterinarian busy full-time, providing low cost spaying and neutering for those unable to pay the costs of a private veterinarian.

"All our vet does is the neutering. Since he has not had to invest in the delicate equipment needed for a complete practice, we can provide this service at a much-reduced cost," Mrs. May points out.

The society's adoption policy also requires that any dog or cat placed in a home, following home investigation, must be neutered. Costs for the operation range from $15 for a male cat to $35 for a female dog.

Further information concerning the clinic can be obtained by calling 372-5556.

"Our primary purpose is to prevent suffering, which is not always synonymous with placing an animal for adoption or saving a life. More often, it is synonymous with taking a life," reads the purpose statement of Mrs. May as executive director in 1971.

The shelter, sponsored by the non-profit organization, is open 24 hours a day for receiving animals of any kind, she explains.

"Any animals of any kind, whether injured, ill, unwanted or lost, either wild or domestic, may find peace and security and whatever care they may need here," she says.

"Whether the need is medical care, release from suffering or only shelter, food and a warm place to sleep, they will find it within these walls," Mrs. May concludes.

Carmel High School varsity football coach Jason Harbert was cautious in his appraisal of the team during its first workout Monday at the Middle School field. He stressed to us that the team was an inexperienced one, with only five starters returning this year—Carmel Valley resident Rick Parker, an offensive split end and defensive corner, and four Carmelites: Mike Chappell (quarterback), Steve Rilling (offensive guard), Chris Ford (offensive tackle), and Joey Gimbel (defensive safety).

Harbert and backfield coach Monte Feekes both indicated the team's strength this season will come from the many 1973 junior varsity players who have come out for varsity ball this year. There were thirty-two varsity candidates out on Monday, most of them junior varsity players at Carmel last year.

Feekes praised junior David Hare, last year's JV quarterback, as a very desirable addition to the team this year, and mentioned that if Mike Chappell were not returning, Hare and junior transfer Willy Fekeci, who quarterbacked the Monterey JV last year, could be counted on to share the quarterbacking duties.

Harbert added that another transfer student, senior Mark Nichols from Robert Louis Stevenson, who was a varsity tailback last year, was one of the few players this year with varsity experience.

Both Harbert and Feekes were optimistic about the team this season, adding that with only six out of thirty-two players with experience playing varsity ball, a lot of practice would be necessary to mold the 1974 varsity into a winning team.

Junior varsity defensive coach Joe Feldiason was also optimistic about the JV chances this year. He told the OUTLOOK that the team this year (37 out, with a possibility of 15 to 20 more when school starts) was fairly strong, with more depth than last year.

Frank Lynch, head JV coach, shared Feldiason's enthusiasm, citing many players who played Frosh ball last year including Kelly Ragan, Jay Whitehead, Paul Sandman, Jeff Canadas, and Bruce Crane—as well as some returning JV players including Steve Sherman, Mike Scalise, Mike Harbert, and Rick Palmer.

Both the JV and varsity will play at the Pacific Grove Jamboree on September 6, both playing Pacific Grove and Marelo.

San Francisco Giants Boosters Club president Allan Murray called the OUTLOOK with plans for a Labor Day outing to see the Giants in action against the Los Angeles Dodgers. The Boosters and other Giants fans will leave San Francisco September 2, returning after three games on September 4. Since only night games are scheduled, other activities are scheduled for the daytime, such as side trips to the Queen Mary and Knotts Berry Farm.

Giants fans need not be Boosters Club members, Murray said. Special arrangements will be made for fans from this area, with connecting flights being arranged. For further information, call Allan Murray collect at (415) 456-6633 or (415) 453-7455.

For Oakland A's fans, the A's have begun to accept ticket orders by mail for the 1974 American League Championship series. Opening games for the best-of-five series would be held in Oakland October 5 and 6 if the A's go on and capture the American League West title.

Tickets, available only in two-game strips, are priced from $14 for lower boxes and lower deck to $4 for bleacher seats, with second deck seats going for $10 and third deck seats costing $6. All ticket orders must include $1 for postage and handling. Payment must be made by cashiers check or money order only, and should be mailed to Oakland A's, Box 117, Oakland 94606.

Jody Allen to perform Sunday

Jody Allen will be the guest artist Sunday at the August meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Organ Buffs at 2:30 p.m. at the Monterey Music Company, 598 Fremont Ave., Monterey.

A former performer at the Mark Thomas Inn, Miss Allen has given several concerts on the peninsula.

Joe Gautheir, organist at the Moose Lodge in Del Rey Oaks, was guest artist in July, performing before 30 club members.

The September meeting will be omitted because of the Home Organ Festival at Asilomar. The Organ Buffs meet the fourth Sunday of each month.

DEER, such as this fearless one, horses, pigs and goats are taken into the Monterey SPCA shelter as well as dogs, cats, and birds. No animal is placed for adoption without a home interview. (Outlook staff photo)

Mobile museum needs help 'Company' to continue run

The newest project of the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art offers challenging volunteer opportunity for men and women with backgrounds or interests in art, education and direct action programs.

Volunteers will travel with the Museum-on-Wheels to present a folk art exhibition to schools and other facilities on the Monterey Peninsula, Salinas Valley and rural areas of Monterey County. They will assist staff members of the traveling museum in setting up exhibits, audio visual presentations, conducting art classes and an evaluation study.

The project needs people who are willing to give eight hours per day for a minimum of two days per month, and to enroll in an eight-week course in folk and ethnic art at Monterey Peninsula College this fall.

Types of skills and qualities which are being sought for the project include: a speaking knowledge of Spanish; art background, especially a familiarity with folk art; education background (teachers, classroom aides, administration); familiarity with operation of photo and/or recording equipment; experience with community action, minority or youth programs; good physical health, vigor and imagination; travel in foreign countries.

The Museum-on-Wheels is a colorfully decorated van containing portable display cases which will be removed from the vehicle and assembled on the premises where the exhibition is being shown.

The project is conducted by the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art with the assistance of grants from the National Endowment for the Arts, Washington, D.C.; the California Arts Commission, Sacramento; the Bing Crosby Youth Fund, Monterey; the Ernst D. van Loben Sels-Eleanor Slate van Loben Sels Charitable Foundation, San Francisco, and with assistance from the Monterey County Office of Education; California Test Bureau, a division of McGraw-Hill; the State Department of Migrant Education, Sacramento; and numerous local schools, organizations and individuals contributing advisory and technical services.

Persons interested in serving as volunteer aides may contact the project coordinator, Ilene Tuttle, at the Museum, 559 Pacific St., Monterey; telephone 372-5477 any week day from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The Monterey Peninsula College Players production of "Company" in the intimate SRO theatre will continue this week with final play dates at 8:30 p.m. Aug. 23-25.

Set in a present-day New York situation, "Company" is the story of a single man, Robert, played by Michael Byrne, and his relationships with several of his married friends and some of his single ones. It is Robert's birthday and he becomes company for dinner, company for the opera, company here and company there—the eternal third wheel.

Reservations for the small theatre are suggested and can be made by calling the MPC Theatre Box Office at 375-0455.

Back to school, fall 1974

New high school principal appreciates diversity

By TOM LUECK

LOOKING forward to his first school year on the job Dan Stevenson, the new principal of Carmel High School, recalls a telephone conversation with a veteran high school administrator:

"Well Dan, what are you going to change at the high school this year?" asked the veteran.

"Probably not much, but..."

"You're learning in your old age Dan," interrupted the voice on the line.

Sitting in his new office last week Stevenson, who assumed duties as principal in June, spoke of the strengths and weaknesses of Carmel High School. He gives the impression that he is brimming with new ideas concerning high school curricula and administration, but sees the wisdom in patience and compromise.

"Right now I'd say that I'm not going to be personally responsible for any changes," he said. "I don't want anyone to get the idea that I'm going to turn things upside down, or force any changes on them. But one of the reasons I accepted this position is that there seems to be a climate for change here."

While his new job is Stevenson's first as the principal of a high school, he comes to Carmel with an impressive resume and views any particular educational "climate" here in relation to experience at several schools around the state.

Currently completing work on a Ph. D.

degree in education at Claremont Graduate School, he has coached and taught in Beaumont and Banning; been a guidance counselor at San Clemente High School; and prior to accepting his present post he was associate principal at Claremont High School.

"The most important strength here is diversity," he said, "in our community, staff, and student body. I view education as a value system, and in Carmel we're dealing with an extraordinary number of different value systems."

Calling upon the vocabulary of an experienced educator, he explained: "In order to meet all the needs of the community, it would be beneficial to move away from a monolithic educational structure and into a more pluralistic system. It would be good to offer students what I call a 'choice model.'"

"At this time, our school is run along pretty traditional lines. Just about every student attends the usual six classes a day, five days a week. That of course excludes the 30 or so students in the Alternative School."

The Alternative School was established during the second semester of the last school year as a result of student dissatisfaction with the curriculum at the high school. Thirty students participated in the program, undertaking a very flexible study schedule and pursuing courses of study largely of their own choosing.

DAN STEVENSON, new principal of Carmel High School, is concerned with curriculum offerings.

STUDENTS in the program worked under a contract system, in which they prepared and submitted an outline of study with the guidance of Alternative School teacher Ralph Kahl and vice-principal Jim Watkins. Hymenoptery, surveying, Indian lore, and gardening were among the variety of subjects studied by students in the program.

The Alternative School will function again this year. While Stevenson hesitates to pass judgement, it seems to be the kind of a program which will fit in with his idea of a "pluralistic system."

"Obviously, I can't assess the Alternative School yet. I haven't seen it in operation. But it appears to me a viable option for a certain type of student," he said.

Establishing a curriculum which meets the needs of "certain types of students," as diverse as those needs may be, is one of Stevenson's basic administrative concerns. In order to provide a fuller "choice model," and go beyond the curriculum presently offered by the high school and the Alternative School, he envisions a program of "schools within schools."

"It would be a program, or group of programs, designed to meet the diverse needs of the community," he said.

"Students who are particularly interested in art, or English for example, could concentrate on those areas and not be forced to spend as much time in areas that do not interest them."

"Schools within schools" would be well defined programs, not altogether different from major courses of study in colleges. Stevenson referred to such programs in art and English as "academic alternatives," and said that a wide variety of such alternatives could be offered.

"I've got a list of about 36 possible programs that I've compiled through discussion with staff members and other people," he said.

"The program is just in the discussion stage now," he said, and reiterated his intention not to "force any changes on anyone." He did however acknowledge that, with staff agreement and support, some form of the "schools within schools" program could be transferred from the drawing board to the classroom within the next two years.

"It's conceivable that we would submit a plan for one or two programs to the board next spring, and get underway in 1975," he said.

Scheduling of classes is also one of Stevenson's areas of concern in looking over the operation of the school.

"The school I came from had a more flexible schedule, in which students had more free time when not attending classes," he noted. Although he didn't specify how any greater flexibility in scheduling at Carmel High School could be implemented, he implied that such a change may be in the works.

When questioned about any critical problems that exist at the school, he replied with hesitation:

"Our facilities are the problem, more than anything else. The physical plant here is just too small."

He stated that the school board had attempted raising funds for a new high school, and that he is "hopeful that the money will be made available in the next few years."

A bond election for that purpose was defeated recently by district voters.

Above all else Stevenson, who is settling in Carmel with his wife and six children, seems excited about living and working in the community.

"I must admit that the educational climate wasn't the only kind of climate which attracted me to Carmel. I think the area is great."

Off - campus offerings from MPC increase this year

With increasing numbers of community members enrolling in Monterey Peninsula College evening classes, the college has been pushed to the limit for use of its on-campus classroom space.

Keith Merrill, community education dean, said 10 off-campus courses were offered last spring. In the fall, the number of courses to be offered at selected sites in Monterey, Pacific Grove, Marina, Seaside, Carmel, Carmel Valley and Big Sur will reach 38.

Merrill said "off-campus classes have been found to be a positive approach to making the college more accessible to the residents of the communities surrounding the campus."

Another important change this year is that off-campus courses will be available at no cost to the student, except for the purchase of text books.

The district has decided not to levy an "adult registration fee" and there is no "building use fee" charged to students taking courses held away from the campus.

Most of the classes being offered in the expanded program this fall carry regular college credit and are transferable to other colleges.

The following is a list of courses by community and their classroom location:

This is the strange, wonderful shoe with the heel lower than the toe.

This shoe is different from any shoe you've ever worn. It's the EARTH* negative heel shoe. The shoe designed to work in harmony with your entire body.

The heel of the Earth shoe is actually lower than the toe. This allows you to walk naturally. Like when you walk barefoot in sand or soft earth and your heel sinks down lower than your toes.

The entire sole of the Earth shoe is molded in a very special way. This allows you to walk in a gentle rolling motion. And to walk easily and comfortably on the hard jarring cement of our cities.

to be sure you're getting the Earth brand shoe, look on the sole for our Earth trademark and U.S. Patent #3305947.

Your body will thank you. Shoes, sandals, sabots and boots for men and women. From $24.50 to $43.50.

Fifteen new teachers

There are 15 new teachers and administrators in the Carmel Unified School District this year.

At Carmel High School, there is a new principal, Daniel G. Stevenson; a new assistant principal, Martin L. Krovetz; and new teachers Wendy Stiles, business education; Richard Fletcher, biology; and Julie Gallagher, mathematics.

The new teachers at Carmel Middle School include Robert Henricksen, language arts; Marsha Higgins, language arts; Kay Kamps, language arts; Chad Lincoln, language arts; and Tina Paradiso, music.

At Carmelo School, new teachers are Judith Engle, primary; and Lois

Rockefeller, learning assistance program.

At Tularcitos School, Nancy Darmsted has been added this year as a primary teacher. At Woods School, Mary Puckett will also teach primary, and at River School, Doris Daisley will teach in the early childhood education program.

Twilight college offers an alternative

For years working people go to school full-time or work full-time and squeeze college attempts to continue their education because of the desire to be at home with the family or friends. Students have had to either

"all or a little situation." Vince Bradley, director of continuing education, said the concept of a Twilight College has been tried at a few other colleges and found to be successfully received.

"It is specifically geared to the person who must work but can arrange his hours so that he can enroll in classes which start from 4 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. and be over between 6 p.m. and 8:30 p.m.

This kind of scheduling allows people to continue their education, personal development, or explore other areas of interest to them at college," he said. In its first semester 27 classes representing 15 different disciplines will be offered in Twilight College. The following is a list of the Twilight College classes included:

- Admin. of Justice: Criminal Psychology; and Report Writing.
- Art: Calligraphy.
- Aviation: Ticketing and Reservations.
- Business: Personal Relations and Consumer Issues and Buying Problems.
- Data Processing: Beginning and Advanced Programming; Business Data Processing and Advanced Business Data Processing.
- Drama: Play Production; Acting Workshop and Performance Dance Workshop.
- Economics: The American Economic System.
- Ethnic Studies: American Indian Experience.
- Health: Perspectives on Drug Use and Abuse.
- History: History of Western Europe.
- Mathematics: Analytic Geometry and Calculus for the Biological and Social Sciences and Business and Intermediate Algebra and Coordinate Geometry.
- Music: Brass Instruments; Woodwind Instruments; and Basic Piano I and II.
- Personal Development: Intermediate Yoga.
- Physical Education: Personal Fitness.
- Sociology: The Individual in Contemporary Society and Working Creatively in the Community.

Career self - assessment inventory available

What do you want to be, when the time is near to make an important career decision? Monterey Peninsula College doesn't have the answer all laid out in a package, but three counselors have developed a Career Self-Assessment Inventory that may give some direction in an hour of decision making.

Counselors Ronald E. Leonard, Ruth Menmuir, and Marshall Chatwin have developed a test which can help students relate their self-assessed interests, aptitudes, temperaments and physical capabilities to compatible careers. Through a series of 38 questions a person is asked to judge himself.

"The program is based on the concept that a person's self-knowledge is a viable basis for beginning to seriously consider career decisions," Leonard said.

"We feel that a person has an adequate knowledge of his own physical capacity, attitudes, temperaments, interests and desired working conditions."

Off-highway vehicle owners must buy proper stickers

Many owners of off-highway vehicles are laying themselves open to arrest by failing to register them or get identification stickers for them, California Highway Patrol Commissioner Walter Pudinski said today.

With four exceptions, all off-road vehicles, including motorcycles, dirt bikes, minibikes, four-wheel-drive vehicles, dune buggies and snowmobiles, must carry the identification sticker issued by the Department of Motor Vehicles.

The exceptions are:

- commercial vehicles;
- vehicles operated only on private property by owners or tenants;
- vehicles operated off highway on closed courses in organized, government-sctioned events.

--motorcycles manufactured before 1943.

Without a sticker or license plate, non-exempt off-road vehicles are subject to being cited by the California Highway Patrol if they are even towed or transported in a truck on a public road.

A total of 175,000 off-highway vehicles now bear the sticker, the Department of Motor Vehicles reported, although a recent DMV survey indicates that Californians own many times that number.

Renewals of the two-year stickers are coming in in a trickle, despite the fact that a penalty raised the registration fee from $15 to $18 on August 1 and another will raise it to $30 at the end of the month.

DMV has sent out renewal bills to owners of 128,000 of these vehicles, but has received the renewal fee from only 60,000.

Of the regular $15 fee, $4 goes to local government in lieu of personal property tax, $5 to DMV for registration expenses, and $6 to the Off-Highway Vehicle Fund in the Department of Parks and Recreation to provide places where off-highway vehicles may be operated.

The great lover John Gilbert co-stars with Garbo for the fourth time in this, Garbo's twenty-first film rated by critics as "Triumph for Garbo!", "Magnificent," "Glorious," "Garbo is enchanting" as the queen who liked to relax after royal duties by dressing as a man, which could and did lead to entertaining adventures.

Local photographers' works in metro show

The work of three Carmel photographers is included in a comprehensive exhibition of more than 125 photographs entitled "Art and Animals: A Reverence for Life" which will appear starting Sept. 3 at the Focus Gallery in San Francisco.

The exhibit includes the works of 35 photographers and continues through Oct. 5. The Focus Gallery is located at 2146 Union St., San Francisco.

Ted Organ, Cole Weston, and the late Edward Weston of Carmel will have their works featured in the exhibit.

Edward Weston over a period of years photographed his own menage of some 20 cats out of which grew his book "Cats of Wildcat Hill" published in 1947. He has five works in the exhibit. A portrait of Weston with his cats by Imogen Cunningham is also included.

Influential photographer teacher Jerry Uelsmann is represented by two photographs utilizing the symbolism so characteristic of his style.

Noted photographer Les Krims is represented by selection of five photographs from his series "The Deer Slayers" in which the killer is pictured in direct relationship with the thing killed.

"Art and Animals" was organized by the Focus Gallery to reveal the wide range of imagery and richly contrasting personal statements and concerns to be found in photographic approaches to a subject long favored in the older arts of painting, sculpture and the graphics. Included are both color and black and white prints.

The Focus Gallery will be open Tuesday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Thursday evenings from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. There is no admission charge.

Latin jazz night features quintet in annual festival observance

The 17th Annual Monterey Jazz Festival will present "Latin Jazz Night" Sunday evening, Sept. 22.

The three-day, five-concert event is scheduled for Sept. 20, 21, 22 on the Monterey County Fairgrounds.

Featured performers for the Latin Jazz concert will include the Cal Tjader Quintet with special guest Jerome Richardson, Flora Purim with Airtio and his band, Fingers, and a Latin jam session which Festival officials have dubbed "Inventions on Manteca" with Dizzy Gillespie, Clark Terry, Mongo Santamaria, a big band from Japan called The New Herd, and a number of surprise guest artists.

Other artists previously announced for this year's festival include the Reverend Pearly Brown, Sunnyland Slim, James Cotton and his Blues Band.

Eddie "Cleanhead" Vinson, Big Joe Turner and Bo Diddley, all appearing in the Saturday afternoon, Sept. 21, blues show; and John Lewis, Eubie Blake, George Shearing, Martial Solal and Dillwyn Jones, featured in the International Piano Forum, Friday evening, Sept. 20.

Tickets are available at major box offices. For information write PO Box JAZZ, Monterey, 93940, or phone (408) 373-3366.

Tickets for Festival of Dance season on sale

Public sale of tickets for the second season of the Carmel Festival of Dance sponsored by Carmel's Sunset Cultural Center began this week. Last year's ticket holders have had an opportunity to renew their subscriptions, but there are plenty of good seats in the best locations available at this time.

However, sales are brisk and the selection will be reduced soon at the current rate of sales. A season ticket offers the advantage of a 25 per cent savings over single ticket prices.

Four companies are featured in the 1974-75 series. Opening on Oct. 22 is the National Dance Company of Senegal direct from Africa.

This company projects the concept of "Soul" through its presentation of the traditions and culture of Africa accompanied by tom-tom and djembe virtuosities.

Second in the series on Nov. 22 will be the American Chamber Ballet. Combining the talents of a new generation of dancers with the work of young contemporary composers, their technical range is wide, the imagination is deep, the repertoire is full. Committed to the classic idiom, the style is both exciting and refined.

Third presentation will be Eleo Pomare Dance Company of New York on Feb. 6, 1975. The African traditions are interpreted through the eyes of inner-city America. Their dances show superb grace and fluidity. In addition, there is a great deal of primitiveness and harsh stridency dominating some numbers.

As a grand finale to the series, world renowned Jacques D'Amboise will appear with members of the New York City Ballet in "Jacques D'Amboise - Ballet Encounter" on Feb. 21. Principal dancer with the New York City Ballet since 1953 and originator of many of the roles in George Balanchine's ballets.

Jacques D'Amboise has been hailed by the world press as one of the two or three greatest male dancers.

Order tickets by mail from Sunset Center Theatre, Box 5066, Carmel, enclosing a check for $15 for each reserved seat season ticket together with a self-addressed stamped envelope or phone 624-3996 for further information.

THE PAINTINGS OF Sam Colburn, a taxi driver and member of the Carmel Art Association, will be displayed starting Aug. 25 at First Federal Savings at Junipero and 6th in Carmel. "Floating Miner," which is what Colburn calls this painting, will be featured with other paintings by his son Cyrus, also an artist, and works by Grace Meredith. Colburn said the surfer imagery was inspired by another son, Bolton, an avid surfer. Another son, Ritchie McBride, will manage the show.

Crisis center seeks volunteers

Additional volunteers are needed for the Monterey County Suicide Prevention Center for its staff of telephone counselors.

Classes meeting Mondays and Thursdays will be held Sept. 26 through Oct. 29.

Prospective volunteers will be interviewed before training begins and will be asked to donate four hours of phone time weekly.

The course includes lectures, study discussion groups, practice calls and evaluation.

Further information can be obtained by calling 373-0713 or 373-6363.

Naval School Music Society announces Friday concert series

The Naval Postgraduate School (NPS) Music Society has announced the program for its 1974 Friday Evening Concert Series.

On Sept. 13, cellist Nathaniel Rosen will open the series with a performance of classical, romantic and contemporary pieces for the cello. Included in his program are many works for cello which have not been widely performed.

Rosen has been called "a brilliant artist and a great virtuoso" by leading authorities in the music world. He has traveled throughout the United States and Europe as a soloist with orchestras, as a recitalist, and with chamber groups.

Tickets for this performance will be on sale starting Sept. 3 at the Postgraduate School's Student Mail Center and Abinante's Music Store in Monterey. Tickets are $3.50 each and should be purchased early because seating is limited. The concert will be held at 8 p.m. in Ingersoll Hall on the NPS campus.

Other scheduled performers in the Friday Evening Concert Series are: Oct. 11, internationally known composer, Lou Harrison in a concert of Chinese classical music; Nov. 22, Yukiko Kamei presenting a violin and piano recital; Jan. 24, Montagnana Trio which will perform with clarinet, cello and piano; March 7, Claremont Consort in an evening of Baroque music and instruments; April 11 and 12, pianist Istvan Nadas; and May 23, the Mills Performing Group of Mills College.

DANCING with Ballet Fantasque in the performances Friday and Saturday at Sunset Center in Carmel will be (from left): Linda Creamer, Militza Ivanofsky, and Patricia Norman.

Classical, temple dances in Ballet Fantasque concert

Ballet Fantasque will present a varied program when it appears for two performances at Sunset Center Theatre on Friday, Aug. 23, and Saturday, Aug. 24. The Friday concert will be at 8:15 p.m. and for the convenience of those who prefer not to go out at night, the Saturday show has been scheduled for 2:30 p.m.

The company will present "Spring Dance" which is about a child's vision of a land of fantasy. "Paquita" is in the strict classical style of the ancient Spanish ballet and is danced en pointe.

"Searching for the Essence" is a modern piece including several contemporary styles of dancing and includes a traditional temple dance of India. A fourth number, "Gypsies," is drawn from traditional Andalusian folk dance patterns and is a gay and fast-paced selection.

Tickets for both performances are now available at Abinante Music Company in Monterey, Lilly Walkers in Pacific Grove, and at Julia Marlowe's-Tickets, Room 8A, Sunset Center.

Those attending the matinee on Saturday should note that both Carmel routes of the JPA Transit Bus stop at the Sunset Center corner at San Carlos at 8th.

There are special reduced prices for students and for military personnel. For more information call 624-3996.

Oakland Ballet set as final city concert

The final program of the 1974 city-sponsored Sunday Afternoon Concert Series at the Forest Theater will take place at 2 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 25. The performing artists will be the Oakland Ballet under the direction of Ron Guidi.

Highlight of the program will be the presentation of "Fantasies" by John Clifford, director of the Los Angeles Ballet and former principal dancer and choreographer with the New York City Ballet. This will be the Northern California premiere of "Fantasies," which is considered by critics to be his finest creation.

The company will also present the most popular works from its current repertory, including the Scott Joplin "Rags," the classical "Soiree Musicals," and Ron Thiele's acclaimed "Chaconne."

The company is planning to also present the West Coast premier of "Partita

For Four" by the Jeffrey Ballet's award-winning choreographer, Gerald Arpino.

The company's recent summer tour included an appearance at Victoria, Canada.

It was a year of significant new directions for the East Bay's only professional ballet company. While continuing to perform works in the contemporary style for which it has become noted, the Oakland Ballet has strengthened its repertoire of classical ballets with new productions of "Raymonda," "Act III," and "The Nutcracker."

Highly acclaimed by both audience and press for their 1973 performance at the Forest Theater, Carmel extends a welcome to this fine company for their return engagement for the gala final concert of 1974

Monterey Symphony sets auditions for next Thursday, Friday

Auditions for applicants who wish to play in Monterey County Symphony Orchestra will be held Thursday Aug. 29 and Friday, Aug. 30. Qualified musicians who wish to audition may call the symphony office at 624-8511 for an appointment.

The symphony, under the direction of Haymo Taeuber, presents a series of six concert sets in Monterey, Carmel and Salinas. The orchestra, now in its 29th season, is classified as a metropolitan symphony under the rating system of the American Symphony Orchestra League.

The Symphony Association holds a three-year contract with Local 616 of the American Federation of Musicians.

It has been awarded a grant by the National Endowment for the Arts under which a Chamber Symphony performed concerts in King City, San Luis Obispo, and Peninsula cities. This season a set of matinee concerts at Sunset Center will be added. A grant from the California Arts Commission helped fund 53 in-school demonstration by the various sections of the orchestra with Scott MacClelland, K-WAV's classical music director as coordinator and narrator. The success of this project has resulted in a program of demonstrations planned to reach schools in the entire county.

Notice

Students new to the Carmel Unified School District who wish to enroll in Carmel High School may do so on Aug. 27 and 28. Counselors will be available, and appointments may be made by telephoning Carmel High School at 624-1821.

Foreign studies school accepting registration for coming semester

Advance and continuing registration for the fall semester of the Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies is in progress and will continue until Sept. 17. The first day of instruction is scheduled for Sept. 19.

MIFS is a private, fully accredited upper division college and graduate school. With a predominately foreign-born and foreign-educated faculty and staff, the Institute prepares students for teaching, foreign service, international conference interpretation, international business and other positions with internationally-oriented public and private organizations.

The curriculum emphasizes the importance of the historical perspective, ethos, cultural and linguistic traditions of other civilizations in order to instill in its students a more profound understanding of our global neighbors. Towards this goal, the spectrum of courses offered spans a wide range of disciplines: foreign languages, international studies, education, international economics and management, English as a second language, translation and interpretation and international relations.

The B.A. program in international studies, which will be introduced for the first time this fall, is based on the principle that a multidisciplinary, cross-cultural approach is essential to understanding the world environment today. MIFS is one of the few academic institutions which, in offering a B.A. degree in international studies, gives students the opportunity to expand their intellectual horizons in areas beyond a limited specialization.

Among the courses offered in the international studies program are: "The United States and Asia," offered by Claude Buss, head of MIFS' Asian Studies Program; and "History of Brazil," offered by Phil Johnson, Latin America specialist.

For further information on courses, programs and registration, contact George Williams, Dean of Admissions and Records, MIFS, 373-4779.

Local girls compete

A group of young people under the direction of Carmelite Jennie England won the National Senior Team Twirling Championship in competition with 32 top teams from across the nation.

In final round competition with teams from New York, Oregon, Indiana, and Illinois, team members Cindy Larkin, Dana Lee, Pam Moore, Marilyn Peterson and Debbie Larkin Rees, better known as the "Monarchs of England" emerged with the top title. Mrs. Jennie England, Director of the Twirl Clubs of Monterey County reported that 77 teams competed in the national competition, under the auspices of the United States Twirling Association.

It was significant the night of the competition that the "Monarchs" received a

Dog obedience class offered

Registrations are now being accepted at Sunset Center in Carmel for a beginners' class in dog obedience training. Instructor is Charles Nelson who is known for his classes at Del Monte Kennel Club.

The afternoon class will begin on Wednesday, Sept. 11, and continue for eight consecutive Wednesdays. The fee for the eight-week course is $16 and a check made payable to Sunset Center should accompany all registrations.

standing ovation from the audience in the San Francisco Civic Auditorium at the conclusion of their performance.

Three Carmel children also participated in the weeks activities which included: individual and team competition. Heidi England was a member of the Junior Twirling team, the "Princesses" which placed sixth nationally and Kimberly England and Deanna Sailer participated as members of the "Petites" who placed fifth in the competition.

The Petites are the current Juvenile State Team Champions.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Any individual, firm or agency who plans to build or place a structure in, on, under, or over the navigable water of the United States must first obtain a permit from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. Such permits are also required for any dredging, filling, or dredge disposal in navigable waters. Regulations governing the administrative procedures on permits for activities in navigable or ocean waters were published in the Federal Register on April 3, 1974 as 33 CFR 209.120.

Navigable waters are any waters which are, have been, or can be used for commercial or navigation purposes. Federal permit authority extends over the entire surface of such a water body. Thus, any work in areas presently or formerly subject to tidal action (below the plane of mean higher high water, including unfilled areas behind dikes) or below the ordinary high water mark of rivers and streams may require a Corps permit.

The Federal Corps of Engineers permit is required in addition to any State or local permits. Private ownership of land under or beside the water has no effect on the requirement. If work is done in navigable waters as described above without a permit from the Corps, civil or criminal actions (including removal) can be instituted pursuant to 33 U.S. Code Secs. 406, 407, and 1319. Any questions regarding permits for work in navigable waters may be directed to the Regulatory Functions Branch, San Francisco District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, 100 McAllister Street, San Francisco 94102, telephone: (415) 556-5178 or 556-5489.

DATE OF PUBLICATION: August 8, 15, 22, 29, 1974

Now U.S. Savings Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity.

Here's how it works: The higher interest rate applies to all new Bonds purchased since December 1, 1973, raising their rate from 5½% to 6% when held to maturity. And the maturity period on Series E Bonds is shorter, too. Now E Bonds mature in 5 years, with a first-year rate of 4½%.

Series H Bonds, with a 10-year maturity, will earn 5% the first year; 5.8% for the next four years; and 6½% for the last five years. This gives you an average 6% yield over the 10-year period.

It works for Bonds you now hold, too. There's no reason to redeem your older Bonds to buy new ones.

Their yield has improved, too.

All outstanding E Bonds will receive a ½% increase in yield for each semiannual interest period beginning on or after December 1, 1973, payable upon redemption. This also applies to any Freedom Shares you may still hold.

All outstanding H Bonds will receive a ½% yield increase for each semiannual interest period beginning on or after December 1, 1973.

This is payable in the form of increased semiannual interest payments.

It all works to your advantage. Now, more than ever, it makes sense to buy higher-paying U.S. Savings Bonds and hold them to maturity or beyond.

Adequate water supply projected

The Carmel River water basin could provide a sustained annual yield of about 15,000 acre-feet if the basin water level were lowered an additional 10 feet.

That conclusion is reached by the State Department of Water Resources in its final report on its survey of water resources available in the Carmel Valley and Seaside basins. Portions of the report were read by Richard Meffley, senior engineer for the department, at last Monday's meeting of the Monterey County Zone 11 Flood Control and Water Conservation District.

Meffley confirmed an earlier report which projected adequate water for the Peninsula from the Carmel Valley aquifer until 1981 or 1982.

He noted that a comprehensive water supply study should be undertaken in the near future in planning for development of resources to serve the area beyond that date.

The study, which has been funded by $15,000 from the county district and $15,000 from the state, was undertaken to clear up conflicting claims regarding the adequacy of water supplies in the Valley presented at State Public Utilities Commission hearings.

Currently the California American Water Co. is planning to construct a $40 million dam on the Carmel River, downstream from the San Clemente Dam, and conclusions presented in the report seem to give the company a seven-year period before resources facilitated by the dam would be required by its service area.

The conclusion regarding the feasibility of lowering the water table in the Carmel Valley basin is significant. In recent years the amount of water drawn from the Valley basin to serve Cal-Am customers has not exceeded 10,000 acre feet.

An annual yield of 15,000 would go far to serve a growing number of customers, but concern was expressed at the meeting over the potential effect of lowering the water table on vegetation.

Cal-Am is prohibited by a P.U.C. interim order from making most new connections of water mains to serve new customers until additional water supplies are generated.

Committee member Ed Lee reported that he had read a report finding that vegetation would be severely damaged by lowering the water table below 10 feet.

"I question whether Cal-Am is prepared to irrigate that whole 13-mile stretch of the Carmel River," he said.

Meffley said while the survey had not included an in-depth investigation of effects on vegetation, he would look into the matter.

One other concern was expressed from the floor regarding the quality of water extracted from a lower depth in the water table. Betty Davis of Carmel Valley said because of the manganese in the water extracted from the depths, a problem would be created for area sewage treatment facilities.

"With a lower quality of water, you're going to get more sludge," she stated.

Other conclusions included in the report which relate to the proposed stepped up use of water resources in the Carmel Valley basin include:

--New well fields could be developed in the valley to accomplish the extended operation of the basin as water requirements increase.

--Concentrations of iron and manganese in water pumped from the Carmel Valley under extended operation would be equal to or greater than present concentrations, and new well fields may require treatment facilities.

--Additional water supplies over and above that available from the Carmel Valley and Seaside ground water basins must be developed to provide for future growth of Zone 11.

Party plans:

Old-fashioned canning is in season this summer

By PHYLLIS JERVEY

Most of us are taking advantage of this summer's abundant supply of fresh fruits and vegetables to put up relishes, preserves and jellies—not wholesale but for us individually. There are so many living alone in Carmel who find this a pleasant and fragrant pastime that will benefit bazaars this early fall and for not-so-far away Christmas gifts.

We have gathered some old fashioned recipes brought up to date to encourage us in this project. Meals are uplifted with tender crisp pickles and the pungent scent of vinegar, spices and sugar made into jellies of every shade, from the early greens and rose of young apples, the brilliant Spanish matador red of mature tomatoes or the verdant ones what with cucumber and cantaloupe. Let's get down to facts.

Harriet Meyer, longtime aficionada of everything Carmel, has reluctantly moved to "The Village" (alas not ours). As a memento, this charmer left her grandmother's hand-written recipe for Watermelon Pickle for exclusive inclusion in Party Plans.

Harriet's Watermelon Pickle

Three qts. trimmed watermelon rind, boiling water. 7 cups sugar, 2 cups vinegar, 1/2 tsp., each, oils of clove and cinnamon, small unpeeled orange and lemon, each, ground nutmeg, some mace and ginger (powdered)

Trim off green skin and any pink flesh cutting rind into 1 inch cubes. Put in large saucepan, cover with boiling water, boil until tender not soft. Drain. In another saucepan combine sugar, vinegar and oils of cloves and cinnamon, bring to boil and pour over rind. Let stand overnight at room temperature. In morning drain syrup from rind, heat, pouring over rind. Let stand overnight. In morning, slice unpeeled orange and lemon crosswise, quarter each slice. Add to rind in syrup with nutmeg, mace and ginger. Heat to boiling point. Turn into 4 to 6 hot sterilized pint preserve jars. Seal according to directions. Store when cool in pantry cooler.

Harriet's grandmother's version was quaint but a bit vague on measurements. Same old timey taste we are sure.

Dilled Green Tomato Pickles

Three lbs. med. green tomatoes, washed; 2 cups white vinegar; 2 Tbsps. salt, 3 cloves garlic, peeled and split, 5 fresh dill sprigs or 2 1/2 tps. dried crumbled dill. Remove stems from tomatoes, cut each into 6 wedges; set aside. Sterilize 5 pint jars; leave in hot water until ready to fill. In small saucepan, combine vinegar and 1 cup water, lightly salted. Bring to boil, remove from heat. With slotted spoon, quickly ladle tomatoes into hot jars. To each, add 1/2 garlic clove and 1/2 tsp. dried dill or 1 whole dill sprig. Fill with vinegar mixture to within 1/2 inch of tops. Cap.

Mrs. Charles Felder of Carmel and devoted parishioner of All Saint's has a specialty, Rhubarb Conserve: Four cups chopped fresh rhubarb; 6 oranges with rind, 2 lemons with rind ground together; 1 medium can crushed pineapple; broken walnuts, a good handful; 1/2 lb. white raisins; 4 cups sugar.

Cut unpeeled rhubarb into 1-inch pieces. Grind oranges, lemons, raisins, add pineapple, next sugar. Cook with juices slowly until thick. Stir often so as not to scorch. Add nuts 5 minutes before removing from stove. Pour into jelly glasses and seal with paraffin or pint Mason jars. So good on toasted English muffins for breakfast or tea as its tawny tartness is similar to a not-too-sweet marmalade. Makes 6 to 8 medium glasses.

This recipe is now five generations old, originally from our Virginia Page family. Beautiful Beets: Four cups water; 1 cup sugar; 1 cup vinegar; 1 tbsp. salt.

Wash fresh beets, boil until tender. Put in cold water, peel. Bring water, sugar, vinegar and salt to a rolling boil, add cut up beets. Fill hot sterilized pint jars with beets plus boiling hot liquid to top. Seal. Keep refrigerated. Use with cold or hot meats.

California Chili Sauce

Sixteen large, firm, ripe tomatoes; 3

medium sweet red peppers; 5 medium onions; 3 cups cider vinegar; 2 1/4 cups light brown sugar; 1 1/2 Tbsps. salt; 1 tbsps. dry mustard.

Chop tomatoes or cut into eighths. Put onions and red seeded sweet peppers through medium blade of food grinder. Place all items in large kettle. Boil slowly from 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 hours until quantity has been reduced to half or less, depending on water content of tomatoes. Watch closely and stir so sauce does not stick. Makes 3 to 4 pints. It has a delicious homemade flavor.

Raspberry and Currant Jelly

One qt. ripe currants; 1/2 cup water; 1 1/2 qts. red raspberries; 7 cups white sugar; 1/2 bottle liquid pectin.

Crush currants. Put in preserving kettle with the water. Bring slowly to a boil. Crush raspberries. Place both fruits in a jelly bag (several thicknesses of cheesecloth tied at top.) Squeeze out the juice. To 4 1/2 cups juice add 7 cups sugar. Mix well. Put into sterilized glasses. Cover with liquid pectin according to directions.

Canadian Carrot Conserve

Two cups carrots, diced small, grated or ground; 1 cup water; 1 cup sugar; 2 tbsps. lemon juice, 1 tsp. powdered ginger. Bring to a boil and simmer until carrots are cooked, 20-25 min. Pour into sterile glass jars.

Carmel resident suggests extending reserve

A Carmel resident has proposed an alternative to the suggestion that the State Lands Commission grant the status of an underwater park to Carmel Bay.

In a letter to the State Lands Commission, Mrs. Edgar Bissantz of Carmel asks that consideration be given to the extension of the ocean portion of the Point Lobos State Reserve northward to include Monastery (San Jose) Beach as well as Carmel River Beach.

"Please do not grant control of the underwater land along the Carmel shore to the State Department of Parks and Recreation for a Carmel Bay underwater park, as was presented at the hearing at Monterey Peninsula College Aug. 6," Mrs. Bissantz said.

"Such an underwater park here would irreparably damage our established residential community and is not necessary for the preservation and enjoyment of our marine environment."

At the recent public hearing on proposals for Carmel Bay, citizens' groups from the area differed on whether the area in question (1,530 acres from Pescadero Point to Granite Point) should be classified as a park, reserve, or an ecological reserve.

The State Department of Parks and Recreation and the Department of Fish and Game would have jurisdiction over Carmel Bay if the lease is granted by the State Lands Commission.

A state park classification for the area would enable the state to construct restrooms, parking lots, and changing areas, while the reserve and ecological reserve classifications would offer greater degrees of protection of the natural environment.

Various skindiving groups, including the Central California Council of Diving Clubs, Inc., as well as the State Department of Parks and Recreation and the Department of Fish and Game, favor the creation of an underwater park.

Among the groups favoring reserve classification for the Carmel Bay area are the Ventana

Chapter of the Sierra Club and the Carmel Highlands Association, Inc.

Mrs. Bissantz' plan represents a new suggestion for the area.

"If the Lands Commission, Governor Reagan, Senator Grunsky, Assemblyman Wood, the Department of Parks and Recreation, and the Fish and Game Commission work together to have the state legislature extend the present ocean portion of the Point Lobos State Reserve...and give reserve status to the Carmel River State Beach, including Monastery Beach, all means necessary for controlling injury to the marine environment would be established and local fears of damage to our community by an unwanted underwater park would be abated," her letter said.

The State Lands Commission is expected to make its decision sometime in October or November on the future of the Carmel Bay underwater park proposal. Comments and reaction from the local community should be addressed to the State Lands Commission, 1416 Ninth St., San Francisco, 95814.

"The places of origin of the abuses and deterioration of the marine life here are the Carmel River State Beach and Monastery Beach, which is within it," Mrs. Bissantz said.

"By the simple extension of the boundaries of the ocean portion of the Point Lobos State Reserve along that beach, and by giving reserve status to that beach, the Department of Parks and Recreation would have all the authority necessary to bring the situation under control.

"North of the Carmel River State Beach is the ably-administered Carmel city beach, and north of that are the privately-owned lands in Pebble Beach, including Stillwater Cove, the shoreline of which is largely rocky areas and steep cliffs. These are not problem areas."
